-AT THIS OFFICE. -MEN THAT WOMEN LOVE. - When New-

ton need his lady's little finger for a tobacco-stopper, he dug his grave in the female garden of the soul; and women rarely appreciate either Dr. Johnson and Dean Swift, because of the absence in the one of anything like romantic tenderness, and its perversion in the other.
All they care for is that men shall be tender and true to them, idealizing as lovers; as husbands, constant and indulgent; and for this they will condone any amount of crookedness or meanness which does not make its way into the there, he may be what his evil likes to make him elsewhere, so long as he is not unfaithful, and never gets drunk. All the false glitter of the corsair school is due solely to the capacity for loving as-cribed to the heroes thereof. Though a cribed to the heroes thereof. Though a man's name be "linked with one virtue and a thousand crimes," the one virtue, being love, outweighs the thousand crimes, in the estimation of women and of the more effeminate kind of poets; and so long as the "heart is framed for softness," it may be "warped to wrong," without doing him much injury with them. The absolute rightness and justness of a man count for little in comparison with his tenderness.

SCHOOL FOR SCOLDING. - In the early part of the present century scolding was regarded among a certain class in En-gland as an art to be improved by sys-tematic cultivation. It is said that a witness, giving evidence before a Poor Law Committee, many years ago, testi-fied that in one instance within his hed that in one instance within his knowledge there was a night school kept by an old woman for the sole purpose of instructing children, and especially girls, how to scold with vigor and effect. One pupil would assume a fictitions character, called Mother Barlow, and she would be pitted against another, who would be called Mother Cummins, for a contest of verbal abuse, the teacher encouraging and prompting first one and then aging and prompting first one and then the other as the exigencies of the case might require. Such tuition was considered useful to the girls, not only to enable them to "defend their station" in the streets, but also as tending to qualify them for the position of wives and mothers.

A MISSOTRI ROMANCE. - A romantic young man, twenty-eight years of age, a resident of Sedalla, Missouri, Joseph Silvers by name, was lately informed by a friend that a handsome young lady was serving out a life sentence in the Jefferson City Panifentiary who could be released in case of her marriage. Thither posted the good Samaritan, and was accorded an interview with the maiden. He stood not upon ceremony, but immediately took a seat by her side and asked the all-important question, "Will you marry me?" "Yes," was the instant response. Silvers appears to be de-lighted at his success, and has sent a petition to Governor Brown, attaing the case, and asking the pardon of the girl, solemnly promising never to "throw up" to her during their lives the fact that she was once a prisoner. Governor B. Gratz Brown is not at home, and the sighing swain is in a sad state of suspense.

MARRIAGE OF AN OLD COUPLE IN VER-MONT. - William Edwards of Jay, who is almost ninety-five years old, married a woman of seventy a few days ago. This old man was one of Wellington's soldiers and was twice wounded at Waterloo, yet he is a very healthy and apparently well, and has been an inveterate smoker for almost eighty-two years. His grand-father was 104 when he died and his great-grandfather was 114, but he re-gards his father as having been cut off in youth, as he died when only sixty-seven years old. Mr. Edwards intends to make a trip to London next summer, to claim a bounty due to the British soldiers over sixty-one years, which, with accrued in-terest, will amount to nearly $5,000.— Rutlahd Herald, Nov. 27.
